Henry A. Strecker's Associates Serve As Honorary Pallbearers

Requiem Mass Said for Man Who Drew Plans for L. I. Grade Elimination

Friends who were associated with him down the years in various capacities officiated as pallbearers at the funeral of Henry A. Strecker, on Monday, Mr. Strecker, consulting civil engineer, who designed the plans for the railroad grade elimination in Freeport approved by the Public Service Commission, died after a brief illness Friday in his home, 67 North Bergen Pl. A solemn high requiem mass was celebrated Monday morning in our Holy Redeemer R. C. Church. The Rev. John J. Madden was the celebrant, the Rev. John P. Drab, sub-deacon, and Father Rev. McKelvey, assistant pastor of the Church of Our Most Holy Rosary, Roosevelt, sub-deacon. Burial was in St. Charles Cemetery, Pinelawn.

Honorary pallbearers were Mayor Robert L. Dossie, former Mayor Cyril C. Ryan, Walter J. Miranda, Joseph Darcy, State superintendent of Public Works, Village Trustees Cord Viebrock and William F. Glacken, E. J. Gould, H. Leon King, his partner in business, Col. William S. Chapin and Arthur Williams.

Others at the service were Village Counsel Martin H. Weyrauch, John Ellinger, deputy state superintendent of public works; Arthur Howland, chief engineer Long Island State Park Commission, and Charles Adams, former general manager of the Long Island Railroad.

Mr. Strecker was born in Philadelphia, 49 years ago, and graduated as a civil engineer from the University of Pennsylvania. (Continued on Page Four)

Funds for the funeral were raised through the efforts of Patrolman Joseph Romelka, Director of the Freeport Police Boys Club, as a result of appeals through the press and radio. In three days more than $280 was sent him, covering the expenses of the undertaker. If sufficient additional money is taken in, a marker will be placed at the grave.

Jenkins was playing with two other boys, who jumped from the boat and swam back. In his last plunge, he pushed the boat as he leaped and was unable to make his way back. When he did not come to the surface, calls for assistance were issued and many volunteers joined with the First Aid Squads of the Freeport and Baldwin Fire Departments in dragging the waters of Freeport Creek, just off Mill Road for the body.

The search was continued during the night. Early Thursday morning, Patrolman Romelka and a group of 35 P. B. C. members started a search anew. Using outboard motors taken from P. B. C. racing craft the boys skirted the sides of the creek in rowboats for a distance of two miles. Finally Patrolman Romelka discovered the body in the water just off the dock in the rear of 151 South Main st., and brought it to the surface. Major Ernest W. Newton of the Salvation Army served hot coffee and doughnuts to the searchers for the body.

Young Jenkins is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jenkins, four brothers, two of whom are P. B. C. members, and three sisters.

Rev. D. G. Jaxheimer Is Heard by Throng In Farewell Sermon

Christ Church Pastor Cites Paul's Words On Leaving Ephesus

The Rev. David G. Jaxheimer, for nearly 20 years pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, who on Sept. 1 will become assistant to the Rev. Dr. Frederick R. Kneubel, president of the United Lutheran Synod of New York, preached his farewell sermon Sunday morning. One of the largest late summer congregations in the history of the church turned out to hear him preach, and Pastor Jaxheimer greeted each and every one in the corridor as they left.

All the organizations contributed to a fund for the purchase of flowers and the rear of the altar was one mass of floral tributes.

Taking as his topic, "A Final Commendation," Pastor Jaxheimer preached from the text, Acts 20:32, "And now I commend you to God and to the word of his grace."

"On the way to Jerusalem where he was to be tried," the speaker said, "Paul sent for the elders of the Church at Ephesus to speak a parting word to them. He had labored and lived among them for three years, a long time for Paul. He reminded them he had given them an example of how a Christian leader should live and act and preached without fear or favor the whole counsel of God. He had held nothing back that could be profitable to them and at the heart of the Gospel, he preached was repentance toward God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. He reminded them of the dangers a Christian congregation would face in the world. And then Paul knelt down with them and prayed.

This was his parting admonition: 'Now I commend you to God and the word of His Grace. This is to be my parting sermon as pastor, and I could do no better than to use Paul's words of advice and wisdom. I commend you to God.'

Visual Education In School

By WAYNE MARSHALL

Clarence Genner, Freeport's capable shop teacher, will, this year, bring audio-visual education to the high school. Audio-visual education isn't anything new, but this year Mr. Genner is going to co-ordinate all the methods, taking advantage of the techniques the armed services have advanced.

There will be a course in school giving regular school credit to all students who want to learn to operate and service all types of latest mechanical equipment in audio-visual education. These students will be the student operators of the machines, thus giving the teacher full time to prepare and lead her class in discussion.

This new type of teaching will be used in Freeport in grades Kindergarten through 12th. It will be used in all classes and in all departments. Many teachers have, in the past years, taken advanced training to better equip themselves in giving the maximum aid to the student. This is one of education's answers to help the student get the most out of his school courses.

I'm sure that this course will be a success under the excellent guidance of Mr. Genner.

'Phone Directories Being Distributed

246,700 Nassau Names Listed in Issue;

20,300 Business Houses

Business is expanding in Nassau County and more Nassau residents are getting in for a copy of the 1950 Nassau County Telephone Directory which the New York Telephone Company began distributing last Friday.

The number of businesses represented in the classified section of the directory has more than doubled in the past five years—from 9,900 in 1945 to 20,300 this year. And "Cavali" is a new heading making its debut on the yellow pages among 172 new and changed headings.

Appearing for the first time on the directory's 756 yellow pages are such departments as "Trigon Systems," "Police Equipment," "Parking Meters," "Badminton Equipment," "Race Track Equipment," "O'Cars," and "Radiotelephone Equipment."

Since the directory contains 125,000 new or changed numbers, customers are requested to check personal number lists against the new directory and to consult it before making calls.

Listings in the alphabetical section covers 246,700 Nassau telephones, compared with 130,000 five years ago. The number of directories to be distributed has increased 75 percent—from 145,000 in 1945 to 201,000.

The value of Nassau telephones has been increased by the recently expanded local calling areas and the growth of the number of telephones as indicated in the new directory. A Nassau customer may now call or be called from an average of about five times as many telephones as before without extra charge for local calls.

"This means," according to E. F. Edwards, New York Telephone Co. division manager, "that you can reach more of your friends, more shops and stores and more business people—and more of them can reach you."

Telephone customers are cautioned against leaving items of value between the pages of the old directory which will be collected as the new one is delivered. Delivery men carry identification cards which they will show customers on request.

30.5 Million School Enrollment Forecast By Metropolitan Life

The traditional American school house will be near bursting its seams next week when some 30½ million elementary and high school students—the largest number in the country's history—will return to their studies.

According to Dr. Louis I. Dublin, chief statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

"And the end is not yet in sight for the snow-balling of the school-age population," Dr. Dublin warns. "It is now evident that the increase in school enrollments will be greater and will continue for a longer period than was forecast even a short time ago."

"As a consequence of the record high level of births throughout the war and postwar years, the population at ages five through 17 can be expected to rise by more than one-third in the next decade. The peak for school enrollments actually will be reached several years after 1960—around 1964, according to present indications—when there may be more than 44 million children at the school ages."

In each year of the next decade, Dr. Dublin notes, the number of beginners will exceed the number who are graduated from the elementary schools. Enrollments will rise rapidly through 1959, he says, and then at a slower rate in the later years of the decade. For children at the high school ages of 14 through 17, he points out, the situation is just the other way about—the relative gain will be greater in the latter part of the decade.

Dr. Dublin foresees that school enrollments will rise in every section of the country, with the increase especially marked in regions where there has been a large influx of population, such as the Pacific States, and in suburban areas, which have a particular attraction for families with young children.

At present, communities throughout the country are confronted primarily with the problem in elementary schools," he commented, "but before long they will be faced, as well, with a rising tide of enrollments in the high schools. If the school needs of our children are to be met, educational facilities and personnel will have to be expanded substantially. Although school construction is now under way in many parts of the country, these new buildings will provide only a fraction of the space needed. There is also a pressing need for adequately trained teachers, particularly in the elementary schools."

Miss Betty J. Vollet Weds Elbert L. Wilcox

Miss Betty Myers, of Erie, Pa., was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Virginia VanRees and Miss Ruth Carman, cousins of the bride and residents of Merrick; Miss Barbara Ruger and Miss Jane Zolner of Freeport; George Vollet, brother of the bride; Richard Harrigan, of Salem, Mass.; Richard VanRees, cousin of the bride, of Massapequa; and John Kroft, of Merrick served as ushers.

Cornelius VanRees, cousin of the bride, presided at the organ. There was a reception at the Garden City Hotel, Garden City, for 100 after which Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox left by automobile for Lake Champlain, N.Y. On their return, pending the completion of apartments in Kew Gardens Hills, Queens, they will live at the Vollet home.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox are graduates of Freeport High School. The bride was graduated from Alhazir College, Meadville, Pa., and is employed as a representative of the New York Telephone Co., in Manhattan. Her husband received his degree as a mechanical engineer from Yale, and is associated with Alco Corporation at Edgewater, N.J.

Clever High School Lass Will Mix Match Her Wardrobe

FASHIONS

By Ann Di Gesu

Autumn the beginning of new classes, new friends and perhaps a new wardrobe. Smart this year are the velvet trimmed dresses and blouses. Practical would be the new velvet set-in-yoke dresses which could be turned into two different outfits by either inserting or leaving out the yoke.

For school or work the new shirt-waist dresses are wonderful and smart-looking. Especially the accordeon pleated ones. They can be trimmed with different scarves or belts for variety. Your blouses will also be shirlike and tailored. These look especially nice in dark plaids with white collars.

There is a large variety of hip length jackets tailored suits to choose from in solid or checked material. Especially smart is the now popular cashmere sweaters which are making headlines this year.

Corduroy is still holding its own for popularity in skirts, suits, dresses and those practical vestees, which, incidentally, are being worn undressed this year. Good-looking in corduroy are the once-again-popular, waist length Eisenhower jackets which can be changed around and worn with different skirts and slacks.

Wise glove shopping will be the nylon hand-gear as they wash beautifully and dry quickly. Wise, also, will be the lady who wears her skirts an inch shorter than the previous year's length. The new colors burnt orange and cinnamon are also wise fall choices.

The fad in jewelry will be the large chunk jewelry necklace. Long and heavy chain with a large round medal, it brightens up considerably a sweater or jersey blouse while the same is true of the bracelet. The long, slender stick pins or clips lend a chic look to the scarves you wear under suits or with sweaters.

Here's wishing you luck and success with your fall wardrobe. Bye.

The Leader Bookshelf

By MRS. ELIZABETH F. KELLY

Librarian, Freeport

Memorial Library

"Sunrise to Sunset" by Samuel Hopkins Adams gives an excellent picture of the cotton and shirt factory of Troy, New York in the 1830's. Through this story, it is very evident that our well-known

Mr. Adams, well-known for other stories of his own state, New York, has used some actual names and has taken the literary liberty of transferring a "cause celebre" from Rhode Island to a typical up-state industrial center.

Induced by Mr. Goodwill, a foreman, Obedience (Becky) Webb went to the Eureka Mills where she was told she would earn "nine shillings a week." But she was not told of the reductions and the penalties that would be deducted, nor of the prices in the company's store.

Becky hopes for an education, she loved to read, and she knew how to advise Becky after the episode in the shed was an unrecognized man.

If Gypsy knew how to keep confidences, and she did, she also knew how to hold her own tongue when advisable and do a little investigating on her own.

The owner of the Mills, Gordon Stockwell, was greatly respected and was considered a very religious man. One of the factory girls, Priscilla Stamm, was also an active church worker. There came to Troy and to the Mills, at the same time Becky came, a cousin of Stockwell's, Guy Roy. Guy's conviction as to hours and conditions of work was quite different from Stockwell's. Labor interests—as represented by Luther Simms & Cash, Barlow.

Becky is sent away to school. Priscilla Stamm loses her life. Who was the murderer?

THE SPORTS OUTLOOK FOR BALDWIN HIGH

By ED CAFFEY

Many people look to Baldwin High School to be right up in the foreground of the Nassau scholastic sports picture this year for this reason: Last year, in almost all activities, the mainstays of the squads were the undergraduates with football being the only outstanding exception, the juniors and sophomores played the leading roles in carrying the teams.

Last year some of the stars like Big Ed Erickson of the 1948 season took P. G. courses and stayed around just long enough to complete the football season. Last in graduation this year are Johnny Callahan, Bob Pullen, Dave Torkelson, and Tommy Megale. Last year's sensational quarterback, Dick Grotz, will be back, as will Charlie Shaw, who also looked great last year. Others who will probably figure in the Golden Wave attack are Bob Asip, John Scheaff, and George Benetot.

Basketball is the bright spot in Baldwin's crystal ball, however. The only man to be lost this year who saw extensive action on the floor last season is Jack Fitzsimmons. There is a strong possibility that Ed O'Rourke will be back to take a P. G. course. And, according to coach Marty Kilcommons, B. H. S. has two of the brightest prospects in the history of the school in Danny Miller and Big Bill O'Brien. O'Brien was high scorer on J.V. team last year and was brought up to the varsity for the last four games, in which he netted 35 points. Miller was second-high scorer of the varsity last year. And what is more, both were only sophomores! Others who will be pulling up the points are Wally Downey, Charlie Shaw, Charlie Freeman, Bobby Gorman, and Clayton Snedeker.

The baseball picture, too, looks very good. Baldwin's sensational steady Eddie Ritchie will be on the hill. Eddie, if you remember, in the last game of the season lost to Big Jay Schmidt, 1-0, on an unearned run, although he outpitched Schmidt, allowing only one hit to Jay's three. Starting in the B. H. S. coat along with Ritchie are Clayton Snedeker, Dick Grotz, Vernon Clanton, and Ronnie Davis.

So there you have it; Baldwin has a three-way advantage. Not too many athletes were lost in graduation, other schools have lost key men, and the men of the Golden Wave are all experienced veterans.

Check Child's Health Before Classes Start for Fall Term

Parents Advised to Arrange with Family Doctor For Pre-School Physical Examination

With a long and active summer vacation behind them and a season of changeable weather directly ahead, children who are scheduled to go back to school this fall, should pay a visit to the family doctor for a physical checkup.

Some schools actually require annual physical examinations. Others provide for them as a matter of course and in the general interest of public school health.

Season health checks for youngsters as scheduled with the family physician by thoughtful parents, will cover their lungs, hearts, legs, vision, ears, vertebrae, and if made an annual practice can serve to reveal whether they are growing properly, whether their weight is right, and also to determine what changes in diet will be best for them.

These are the safeguards of the child's health that parents can and should provide to insure a sound body that will be better able to absorb the training of mind that is the principal province of the school.

Teeth Need Attention
Similarly the best time for the annual visit of children to the dentist is before school starts and not after the semester begins. Pre-school dental examinations can forestall serious trouble later which may interrupt attendance at classes.
Another important pre-school health check up is the eye examination to determine whether Jun-jun's vision is up to par. Though glasses may not always be necessary, it is best to know in advance rather than to wonder later about what is responsible for the child's held.

inability to make progress in school. New attention is being directed also to the importance of checking up on the school child's ability to hear clearly.

Usually the child is the last one to know whether he can hear well or not, yet lack of alertness or failure to respond promptly may be attributed to a backward personality when a defect in hearing is really to blame.

Better Hearing Crusade
One man who is attempting to do something about remedying what appears to be an increasing problem of hearing, is Dr. Irving I. Schachtel, president of a company that manufactures hearing aids, though what he calls his "crusade" may not help sell his product.

Believing that many children suffering from impairment of hearing could be rehabilitated if their plight was discovered, Dr. Schachtel is urging that more widespread and more careful examinations be made. Comparatively simple portable equipment has been devised for this purpose.

BLAZING STAR COUNCIL PLANS FOR ANNIVERSARY
Blazing Star Council, Degree of Pocahontas, will hold a birthday party in the Sunrise Rest, Bellmore, on Friday night, Sept. 19. Plans for the event were made at a meeting Thursday night in Fire lot's vision is up to par. Though glasses may not always be necessary, it is best to know in advance rather than to wonder later about what is responsible for the child's held.

Henry A. Strecker's

versity of Pennsylvania in 1925. From 1927 until 1945 he was an assistant engineer for the State Department of Public Works. During the time he assisted in designing the system of state parkways and parks on Long Island.

In 1945 when the present administration came into power in Freeport, Mr. Strecker was one of a group of specialists loaned to the village by Robert Moses, chairman of the Long Island State Park Commission, to draft comprehensive plans for the future development of Freeport.

They prepared what was then termed the Mid-Town plan, calling for the moving of the Long Island Rail Road station east of Main st., the development of a system of Municipal parking fields which has been carried out, and the extension and widening of various streets, some of which has been followed through while others will be taken up later.

Had Plans For Milburn Park
Although it was not generally known, Mr. Strecker had been consulted regarding the development of the Milburn Pond Park and made suggestions that will make it possible to lay out the park at a fraction of the cost of the original estimates.

When moving of the station to the East caused such a furor, in response to the requests of a group of civic minded private citizens, Mr. Strecker drafted a compromise plan, for locating the structure slightly westward, which was the one finally adopted as most economical and beneficial for the future welfare of the village. A feature of this plan was the inclusion of the Parking Plaza as a necessary incidental to the project, which was approved by the P. S. C., though it found it could not recommend the purchase of privately owned property with grade elimination funds for the field.

As a result of his efforts in Freeport, Mr. Strecker was retained by the Floral Park Village Board to prepare a grade elimination plan for that community. And when the Ryeville Centre village fathers found they were in a worse predicament than they were before the grade elimination was started there, they too called on Mr. Strecker, who prepared a plan for providing parking facilities that is now awaiting formal action.

Located Office Here
When Mr. Strecker retired from the State Department of Public Works, he moved from Bay Shore to Freeport and taking Mr. King into partnership established offices at 22 Pine St. He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Ann Jackson of Patchogue; two sons, Henry Anthony Strecker III, and Edward Anthony Strecker II, two daughters, Elizabeth and Francis Morrison Strecker, all of Freeport, and three sisters, Miss Mary Strecker, Mrs. Ann Backe and Mrs. Frances Ur-weller, of Philadelphia. His parents, both dead, were Dr. Henry A. and Anna N. Strecker, of Philadelphia. He was a member of the Holy Name Society of Our Holy Redeemer Church.

FROM THE FREEPORT SAFETY COUNCIL TO THOSE GOING BACK TO SCHOOL . . .

During the fall and winter months the early darkness means that we must be especially watchful for children when we are driving our cars.

Youngsters may be returning from school . . . or playing in or near the street . . . or riding their bicycles during the early hours of dusk. And often they don't realize the extra hazards of early darkness. We must watch out for these youngsters of ours.

Students and Service

SYRACUSE—Latest military reserve policies defined by the various armed services, and received by Syracuse University, are obviously designed to eliminate unnecessary disruption of the academic programs of student reservists and will permit a more orderly withdrawal of students from the University, Vice-Chancellor Finis G. Crawford said today.

"It is evident," Dr. Crawford continued, "that student reservists, substantially along in their college courses, are receiving every special consideration possible from the armed forces. This is of particular importance to Syracuse University since a large percentage of our veteran students are in reserves."

National defense department policies in regard to reservists indicate students will be allowed to complete the work for the term in which they are registered. Students, close to graduation may in certain cases, actually be allowed deferment for more than a term in order to complete their programs.

At the present time, non-reservist veterans, with the minimum amount of service, are deferred from induction by the Selective Service Act of 1948. Students who become 18 years of age while in attendance at the University, may register for selective service through the Dean of Men's office, which has been designated as the coordinating agency for the university for selective service and military matters.

Dr. Frank Piskor, Dean of Men, said non-reservists attending the University, subject to selective service, are eligible for deferment during their academic year in which they would be called for induction. This would mean, the Dean stated, that these non-reservists registering for regular university work on Sept. 18, the opening of the Syracuse fall term, may continue in college until June 7, 1951, the end of the spring semester.

Honor Society

By MARY PENTECOST

In an atmosphere tense with excitement and pride eleven juniors were inducted into the National Honor Society on June 6.

The new members are: Susan Hartmann, Lorraine Cole, Dorothy Lehrfeld, Erwine T. Buckenmaler, Imogene Boyd, Thomas Pricke, William Goodwin, Roland Molinet, Marilyn Murtah, Robert Rees and Robert Theriault.

The principal speaker at the banquet was Dr. Arthur W. Lynip, who spoke on commencement and its meaning to seniors. Gordon Evans, George Hambricht, Mary Beth Wood and Jane Barber were student speakers.

The usual secrecy observed was partially removed this year. The students selected were informed beforehand through "reliable sources" that they would join the ranks of the Honor Society.

All students in the top third of the class scholastically are candidates for the Honor Society. They are considered for membership in the following manner:

First, every teacher rates the student in one of three ways: as outstanding material for the Honor Society, as material for the Honor Society, or definitely not material for the Society.

Secondly, the members of the Honor Society vote on the candidates in the same manner as the teachers. Then, all candidates are rated on both extra-curricular work and activity in athletics.

Scholarship counts one-third in the averaging; everything else counts one-sixth.

Opportunity knocks twice, as another induction is held in December.

Harry A. Strecker

I've just come from the funeral of our good friend Harry A. Strecker. I don't feel very much like writing about it, for his sudden passing has given me quite a jolt. I'd rather go off somewhere and be alone for awhile, for you see, Harry was my friend.

He was a good friend, not alone to me, but to many . . . a dear close friend to all of us . . . always helpful . . . always friendly . . . and always full of good cheer. Mayor Robert Doxsee summed it up very well in saying "He was a great man, and a sincere friend to everyone . . . sincere, honest, capable, friendly . . . and a true and loyal citizen."

One never left Harry Strecker without feeling better for having been with him . . . His friends knew they might call on him at any time, and find him ever ready to help. He gave the cup of friendship sincerely, honestly and without restraint.

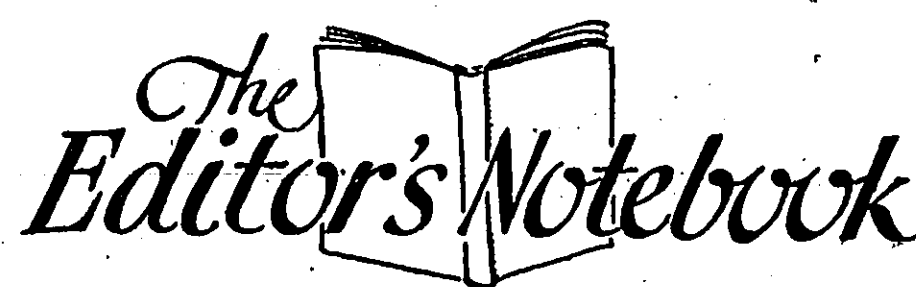

He loved his family . . . If you are privileged to know his family, you know what a wonderful family they are . . . His wife, sons and daughters were devoted to him, as he was to them . . . they all reflect the love of a wonderful father and husband who instilled in them a love for each other . . . Surely, the American home can use more fathers and husbands like Harry Strecker. He left them something greater than riches . . . He left them a happy memory . . . understanding, love, cheerfulness and above all, faith. He gave his love, full and bubbling over, to his family . . .

He had faith . . . faith to last him not only for today, but for eternity . . . To have seen him, serene and peaceful, asleep in his faith, was to know that all was well with Harry Strecker and his Master . . . When death comes . . . that is not the end . . . only the beginning . . . and Harry Strecker knew this and lived it, and more important, died in that faith . . .

He was a great citizen . . . His love of the community in which he lived was expressed many, many times . . . It was expressed in the great dream he had for a greater Freeport . . . His plans for beautifying Freeport were very real . . . they were, like everything about him, honest and sincere . . . These plans, when completed, will make Freeport a better place in which to live . . . In a sense, he gave his life in this dream . . .

In time, his dream will come true . . . the grade elimination plan he developed for Freeport will be a reality . . . the station plaza, a part of his great dream, will be an actuality . . . Will we then forget this man . . . While his memory is still fresh in our minds we may say "No" . . . "We will never forget him" . . . and most of us never will . . . but for those who come after us, would it not be right for us to perpetuate his memory among us and name this new station plaza when completed, the Harry A. Strecker Memorial Plaza?"

And perhaps, in the years to come, your son or mine will ask, "Why was this plaza so named?" and we will take pride and tell them the simple story, of a friend who lived among us.

Once again we have the privilege of presenting a "Back To School" issue, written in the most part by students of the Freeport and Baldwin High Schools.

Working with this fine group of students these past few weeks has been one of the high-lights of our journalistic work to date. We have learned a great deal working with them, and it is hoped they too have learned a little bit by working with us . . . They are a "terrific group of kids" . . . don't ever sell them short . . .

Yes . . . our hats are off to them . . . our hats too are off to their parents (you can well be exceeding proud of these youngsters) but most of all, our hats are off to the schools who nurtured in them the enthusiasm they possess, and develop patiently the ability they have shown . . .

Let us be forever grateful that we live in America . . . an America that has such wonderful schools as Baldwin and Freeport High.

Ray Clements

A Message to Teen-Agers

By ED COTI

Unlike our predecessors, God has endowed us, the younger generation, with almost endless vitality and ingenuity. This has been shown in our excellence in sports, school work and the continuance of a new "sport" namely teen-age driving. But a word of warning! Teen-agers start our driving with two strikes against us. Many adults, and we fear they don't deserve the title, have a grudge against our driving. Whether they feel we are envying their domain or they are victims of the over-emphasis that news-hungry editors place upon teen-age accidents, no matter what the reason, it's unfair.

It might be well to note that the New York State Legislature has really bungled the job of issuing junior licenses. First they allowed teen-agers to drive at night and then turned aboutface and said they couldn't. How about a happy medium? There are quite a few good plans that they could have adopted.

First they must realize that a sixteen-year-old boy taking driving lessons for the first time is like a child with a new toy and is bound to be careless. For that matter so would a person of any age become careless. To be a good driver takes experience like flying an airplane and everybody (no matter the age) needs this experience. In view of this fact, when issuing a junior or a senior license all night driving should be forbidden for one year or a given length of time and at the end of that time the person, be he 17 or 27, can drive at night.

Another plan that could be very easily adopted is for the person who gives you the test to mark the teen-agers "excellent, good or failure." The "good" rating receives a regular junior license and the "excellent" rating receives the license plus the privilege to drive at night.

Many schools now offer a course in "driver training." Everybody should take this course if he or she intends to drive and facilities should be open to all students with or without licenses even if it means that the school will have to buy another car.

The slogan of the "National Safety Council" is about the best way to sum up good driving, it is, "Drive slowly, the life you save may be your own."

Dr. Darlington to Leave Hofstra for Champlain

Dr. Oscar G. Darlington, chairman for the past nine years of the Hofstra College department of history, has announced his resignation from the faculty of the Hempstead college to accept an appointment as professor of history and political science at Champlain College, Plattsburgh, N. Y.

M. C. Old, dean of the Hofstra faculty, expressed the regret of the college and trustees at Dr. Darlington's decision to leave his present position. The historian, who joined the Hofstra faculty in 1938, coming to this area from an assistant instructorship at University of Pennsylvania, lived with his family in Farmingdale from 1938 to 1941. For nine years he has been a resident of Maple Ave., Westbury.

TEN TIMES MORE Anticipated enrollments in high schools are expected to be just short of ten times what the enrollment was at the beginning of the century. Total for 1950 is now estimated at more than 6,000,000.

EDUCATIONAL MOVIES Government agencies have films for visual education of children and adults covering aspects of subjects ranging from agriculture to the United Nations.

TOWN'S TEENS

By FRANCES PRATT

It's growing close to time to bid another summer farewell. Let's see how a few of the Town's Teens spent their summer. A large number of Freeport teens spent most of their time working at Jones Beach. Just to mention a few who picked up their paychecks there—L. L. STRECKER, WAYNE MARSHALL, JOAN EISLEY, CAROLE JENNISON, EILEEN WEST, JOHN CLARK, JACK MERK, "SONNY" HARRISON, JOAN CARLE, JOHN MORAN, JOHN BRADSHAW, DON SWISHER, PETE LOONAM AND JOYCE DAY.

The Summer High School office claimed the time of several Freeport girls: DIANE JORDAN, JEAN SCHROTT and MARY VOGT worked there while DOLORES KARMAN worked as librarian.

Many of Freeport's offices were invaded by F. H. S. girls. LAURA JEAN VOUGHT, ELEANOR HENNINGSEN, PAT MURPHY, SYLVIA DAVIDSON, BARBARA BREEN and COLETTE BALLOT were all charming additions to the business life of Freeport.

DAVE WINTER worked in Hills, ED SMITH at Big Ben and BOB SMITH at the A. & P. JEANNE LYON clerked in Woolworth's in Hempstead. The glamorous blond in Carol Green's is GLORIA FISHER. MARILYN MORRIS added her charm to Estelle's. Most of CAROL MUNKELT's time was spent on the L. I. R. R. commuting to her job in New York.

JACK DURKIN and FRANK FINKINS spent their summers "Back on the farm"—JACK in up-state New York and FRANK in Ohio. BOB YARROW, BARRY HART and CHARLOTTE WOLFSON worked as councilors at camp.

A few of the lucky Town's Teens went away for the summer. PAT McLEOD spent her time fishing and swimming in a Maine lake. JANE WILSON visited her brother in Denver, Colorado. GLORIA DICKINSON made a flying trip to California to visit relatives. IRENE GEMNER was lucky enough to be able to spend her whole summer in Vermont. JOAN RICHARDS vacationed at Lake George and Buckhill Falls, Pa. Several Town Teens traveled this summer. CAROLE CLARKE, JANE OGDEN, BARBARA KEEL and FRANK PRATT were just a few of the many who spent their summer this way. PETE LOONAM and the SWISHER brothers, JOHN and DON, decided to rough it and made a camping trip to Schroon Lake.

Freeport High's maestro, JOHN HERBERT, recently organized a band to play at the Paraglide on Wednesdays and Sundays.

At this time I want to wish the best of everything to PEGGY KELLY and GORDON WHITE in their new homes. PEGGY moved to Massachusetts and GORDON to New Jersey. Also to DAVE COPELAND who joined the Navy.

That's all for this time—See you next week!

Eisenhower on the Importance of Teaching Americanism

On the day of Dwight D. Eisenhower's induction as President of Columbia University, a retired professor took occasion to assure him of the academic excellence of the university.

"Right now," he said complacently, "in our graduate schools, we have some of America's most exceptional physicists, mathematicians, chemists and engineers."

Eisenhower asked softly, "But are they exceptional Americans?"

"You don't understand, Mr. President," the scholarly gentleman said. "These are graduate students."

There is a large vein on the left side of Eisenhower's forehead, rarely noticeable, for the pulse seems to come only from anger. It was throbbing now. Eisenhower exploded. "What good are exceptional physicists, exceptional chemists, exceptional engineers, exceptional anything else—unless they are exceptional Americans? The job of a university is to turn out useful citizens. I have the greatest respect for the high academic standards of the university. But no university can live in an intellectual vacuum. Every man and woman who enters this university must leave it a better American, or we have failed in our main purpose."

Those words set the unchanging keynote to Eisenhower's regime at Columbia.

When the war ended, Eisenhower had faced several possible alternatives—from retiring and "going fishing," or continuing as Chief of Staff, to accepting one of some 50 high posts offered him by industry. To say that Eisenhower felt a strong sense of responsibility towards his country is not to indulge in a vacuous platitude. It is a simple fact. And he decided he could best fulfill that sense of obligation by working for the good of American youth. He had an uneasy feeling that the youth of our country were not alertly appreciative of their national heritage. He didn't know where the responsibility lay, but he had sensed that millions of GIs didn't quite understand what they had been fighting to defend.

When Eisenhower took over, President William Russell, sent him the conventional invitation to call. He expected in reply no more than a polite note of acknowledgment. Instead he got a phone call saying that President Eisenhower would be over next morning. Eisenhower spent eight hours at Teachers College. He talked very little, listened a lot.

"If we had the money we could do some really big things here," Russell said wistfully.

"What could you do?" Eisenhower asked.

"I've spent my whole life in the field of education," Russell said, "and it is my firm belief that too few Americans understand the processes of liberty, the sense of duty and civic integrity that keep liberty alive." And Russell went on for 30 minutes. He stopped in sudden embarrassment. "Sorry, Mr. President," he said. "When I get wound up on that subject, I'm wound up myself on that subject," Eisenhower said quietly. "Our kids aren't learning how to be good Americans by merely reciting the Pledge of Allegiance."

"If elementary schools and high schools would only use the community as a laboratory," Russell said, "good citizenship could be taught the same pragmatic way as chemistry. To launch a scheme like this I'd bring in a few men who have thought along these lines, and who could draw up a concrete plan to be tried out in seven or eight communities. But we need money."

"Let's go out and get," Eisenhower said.

When the board of the Carnegie Corporation heard Russell's plans and Eisenhower's enthusiastic endorsement they put up $450,000. Today the "Citizenship Education" project is moving successfully through an initial tryout period in eight selected communities. Under high school teachers given eight weeks' special training at Teachers College, students are personally studying everything from labor-management relations to municipal bond issues. "They are learning," as Eisenhower remarked, "The practical competence to be free people."

A TEACHER'S RESPONSIBILITY AND POWER

This article was written by Jesse Stuart, a Kentucky mountain youth who attended Vanderbilt and Peabody College during the 1930's and became a teacher and writer. Peabody College thought enough of it to include it in their illustrated brochure of the college.

"I thought if every teacher in every school in America could inspire his pupils with all the power he had, if he could teach them as they had never been taught before to live, to work, to play, and to share, if he could put education into their brains and hearts, what a great way to make a generation of the greatest, citizenry America had ever had. All this had to begin with the little unit. Each teacher had to do his share. Each teacher was responsible for the destiny of America, because the pupils came under his influence. The teacher held the destiny of a great country in his hands. He was a member of any other profession could hold it. All other professions stemmed from the product of his profession."

A Word To Wise Parents

Some parents can unwittingly become the chief obstacle to their children's enjoyment of school, according to a study reported recently by Dr. Rose G. Anderson, Director of the Psychological Service Center of New York.

Dr. Anderson, widely recognized consulting psychologist and author, has pointed out that if parents would do what it is in their power to do in preparing young people for learning by helping them get the things they need, whether it is a good tablet or a set of paint brushes, the educational road ahead would be a happier one for the child.

"Remember," says Dr. Anderson, "the normal child looks forward to school. Given the choice of staying in or leaving school, most children, except those seriously unadjusted, are uniformly in favor of staying in school."

"That's where their friends and associates are. The swimming hole, the playgrounds and the hideouts are pretty lonely places during school hours."

THE SCHOOL OF TODAY:

By R. E. CLEMENTS, JR.

The School of Today is a happy place to be, has well trained teachers, fosters controlled freedom, provides varied books, cafeteria and recreational services, offers varied courses, encourages pupil interests, creates a social atmosphere, measures progress by child growth.

A school is more than a beautiful building, no matter how skillfully designed or well equipped.

A school is a living, feeling, growing spirit, drawing life from the daily triumphs of boys and girls and friendly teachers, and unfolding a personality all its own.

"Man" is the lesson-sermon subject for Sunday at 11 A.M. in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, West Merrick rd., at Elm pl. The golden text is "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his desire shall be from the Lord: 21, King James version.

OF THE TELEPHONE
jumped OVERNIGHT

At exactly 12:01 A.M. last May 14th the value of the telephone took a big jump. That's when we expanded suburban local calling areas. We raised to at least 120,000 the number of telephones all Baldwin 3—Freeport 8 & 9 subscribers can reach—and be reached by—without an extra charge for the call. That's nearly four times as many as most of you could reach before.

At the same time, with the introduction of Metropolitan Area Telephone Service, the rates for calls from most points in Nassau County to New York City and Southern Westchester were reduced five cents or more.

Add it all up, and you find that the telephone is worth more to you than ever before. Most of you can reach more friends, relatives or customers, and they can reach you, with a local call. Yet the price you pay for service is a much smaller part of the family budget today than it was ten years ago.

College Man's Informality Aims at Comfort, Neatness

By R. E. CLEMENTS, JR.

The informality of attire, on which the seasoned college man insists, is not to be construed as giving any authenticity to the cartoons which so frequently paint him as a "sloppy Joe."

The slacks, sweaters, the leisure coats, and windbreakers, the sport shirts with open collars, which he prefers aim at comfort and casualness and not at carelessness. They serve in effect as his "working clothes" in which to go to class and in which to play and study.

But they are selected as carefully as are his more dressy things, usually to furnish diversity within the scope of his limited budget.

"Novelty Vest Appears"

The college man this year is tending toward the conservative in his suits with one exception. And there always is an exception for youth on the campus where so many men's fashions gain popularity.

His fancy this year will turn towards the novelty vests in tartan plaids, Tattersall checks, and high colors from firemen red to Hunting Yellow, to put that extra dash of smartness in his attire.

Black-grays, tans, subdued plaids checks and tweeds, however, predominate for the rest of his campus wardrobe.

The college man's suits, like his sports jackets, are single breasted, 3-button models. Worn most often is his dark gray flannel. However, he also likes and wears similarly styled suits of shetland tweed or simple herringbone patterns.

"For Cold Weather Wear"

As the term progresses and the chill in the air increases, the college man will don a shorter length coat, styled after the British officers' coat, or a snug, warm ulster complete with lamb's wool collar. As in his studies, the college man of today's dressing know-how is certainly up to his A B C's. You don't have to worry about him being a slouch.

Eleanor Krause and Kathryn Myers of The Leader student staff learn about new fall millinery from Gertrude (New Mode) Wolder.

Teach Children Safety 'Truths'

There are 10 safety "Truths" which if followed implicitly by all children would help to reduce the number of injuries from traffic mishaps.

They form the AAA suggested Safety Education Program for elementary schools and are also the basis for the annual Poster Contest for elementary and high school students which last spring drew thousands of entries.

- 1—Obey the Safety Patrol.
- 2—Keep from between parked cars.
- 3—Look both ways before crossing.
- 4—Wear white after dark.
- 5—Cross only at corners.
- 6—Watch for turning cars.
- 7—Be extra alert on rainy days.
- 8—Learn and obey bicycle safety rules.
- 9—Play away from traffic.
- 10—Walk on left facing traffic.

Children will have these truths pointed out to them in class by teachers. Parents will do well to remind them of these points at home also.

FALL FASHIONS

As the locker doors reopen this year, there will be o's and a's heard from the girls' locker room. The main topic of discussion will be the new fall fashions.

The fall of this year is quite different than previous years. It seems that skirts, blouses and sweaters will be quite popular in new striking plaids and solid colors. A few of the newest colors are charcoal grey, cranberry red, claret wine, rust, hermit green and electric blue. The Scots have invaded the high schools as we see many of the skirts are fashioned of the various Tartan plaids as well as the familiar checks and tweeds. Skirts this year are designed in a number of striking styles and flatter to all figures—pleated, flare and straight with novel waistbands, pockets, belts and button trims. These skirts can be matched with many attractive tops to make a large variety of different costumes. Wool jersey blouses as well as wool and corduroy weskits of solid colors can be used to make many different outfits. We can't forget the favorite of all teenagers, a sweater. This year the trend is away from the sloppy sweater and to the more glamorous fitted sweater. Sweaters can be found in a variety of luscious styles and colors. Increasing in popularity are the short sleeved nylon sweaters in the various pastel shades and the new confetti, fashioned with collars and trick button designs.

The classic wool dress will again be seen as well as jersey and velvets. A favorite style seems to be a plain dress trimmed with plaid or velvet. For sport wear the girls this year will be wearing graceful tailored slacks. A popular type are the plaid. However the flatter black and grey, also seem to be very popular. A completely new idea this year is velvet slacks for sport wear. Every girl will also want a pair of the new saloloth dungarees which come in shades of black, red and blue.

As for coats they seem to have remained much the same as last year. Of course every teenage girl waits anxiously for her first fur coat. Going back to school in these new fall fashions will be fun.

Bohach Sales up 3 Million First Six Months of 1950

Retail sales for the first half of 1950 set a new all-time six-month high for H. C. Bohach Co., Inc., Brooklyn and Long Island food store chain, according to a report made to stockholders this week.

GIRLS' SPORTS

By FRANCES KESSELMAN
With the summer recess drawing to a close and the new school year just around the corner, many students are looking forward to the re-opening of the girls' sports program. Girls' athletics is one of the well planned extra-curricular activities sponsored by Freeport High. Students from the ninth through the twelfth grades are eligible to participate in these activities. Some of the sports made available to the girls include: field hockey and basketball in the fall; volleyball, bowling, basketball, and table tennis in the winter; and in the spring, softball and archery. This well rounded schedule provides opportunity for participation in a wholesome and diversified physical education program of team and individual sports. This fall the girls will get their program into full swing by opening the season with field hockey, an outdoor sport, and basketball, which is played in the school gym. Girls' field hockey is a thrilling, packed game of speed and skill and is an excellent example of a season-long sport. Following the opening of school, the girls will meet twice a week to learn the techniques of the game. These skills will be taught by our very capable coach, Miss Dorothy Clark, F. H. S. physical education teacher, who also supervises various other girls' sports. Soon the girls will be ready to proceed to Raynor St. field for actual playing experience. Under the supervision of Miss Clark, members of last year's honor team will each be assigned to coach a group of girls. This year's team captains are as follows: Pat Butler, Mary Lou Prentiss, Pat McLeod, Catherine Macaulay, Mary June Metz, and Frances Kesselman seniors; and juniors, Nancy Sutermeister.

These have been busy days... even vacationing can keep you busy as we have found out... but it has been fun, and we did find a few new places to eat where meal-time was a genuine pleasure... for example, driving through Westchester and on up into Connecticut we can suggest the Hereford House for excellent steak fare... Doran's in Bronxville for fine French-American cuisine... The LARCHMONT LODGE a pleasant hide-away, never misses when it comes to frog's legs or lobster... If you are ever over on Oly Island stop in at the LOEBSTER BOX, THAIETS or the RIVIERA. All are tops for sea-food... TAPPAN HILL in Tarrytown, stands supreme. Try the curried chicken... Near Garrison, N. Y. is the BIRD & BOTTLE. Louisiana shrimp creole or shrimp bisque is magnificent, especially if you dine on the outdoor terrace... Back to our old stamping ground this pastweek-end found us with a group of friends at the MAISON PEPI in West Hempstead. This is a friendly place serving meals delightfully prepared... and we tried the DEEKEN INN out in Wantagh which is a pleasant family place... Back from our vacation for a group meeting which was held at the SWEDEN TOWERS in Baldwin... we keep on raving about this place for the food is tops, and if you ever plan a group meeting take them to this spot and know that you will please them... While vacationing we saw a few good pictures... The WINSLOW BOY with Robert Donat is a good cut above the stage production, and far better than the average English picture... This probably hasn't played L. I. yet, but if it does, we recommend it... "WINCHESTER 73" we understand played here while we were away. This is a "hoss-opera" with Jimmy Stewart and Shelley Winters in which the Winchester gun is introduced to the west... Also took in the stage production "PEP SHOW" This one has the woves going "woo-woo" especially when glamorous Jane Kirby does her bit... Jane who is 22, is unmarried and unattached... is 5' 10" and has a 36 bust and hips in case you are interested... (Now you know we were a vacation)... Don't miss Jimmy Cagney "CRISS TOMORROW GOODBYE" It's a Warner opus out from a fast, solid mold of excitement... Back on the job again, and good to be seeing all our Long Island friends... but what's this important news we hear is soon to break on the LEADER?... we hear some very, very important news is in the making for this favorite newspaper and that the plans will soon be divulged... could it be that a paper that has advanced so in just a few short months is still on the march?... Well, it couldn't happen to nicer people... perhaps next week will tell an important story... see you then.

began to lose. Then the men who stood by, lifted up his arms until the enemy was overcome. So hold up the arms of your pastor in the spirit of battle to win this community and the world to Christ. Make the church strong. I commend you to God and the word of His Grace."

The Rev. Mr. Jaxheimer next counseled the members of Christ Church to attend church regularly asserting that the "Word of God is the source of the congregation's strength." Quoting from the scriptures he continued, "Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the Word of God."

Reception Wednesday Night In conclusion Pastor Jaxheimer said: "In speaking my parting word to you today, perhaps nothing is more important than I could say, than 'and now I commend you to God and the word of his grace.' There is your life line, grasp it with all your might and the spirit will enable you to overcome the forces of evil in the world. You'll maintain a balanced life and find sure footing. God bless you and keep you until we meet again."

Pastor Jaxheimer told of some of the accomplishments of the church during his ministry here, in making the announcements. He said the financial problems had reached a point where the worst is over. Listed the establishment of an independent church in Roosevelt, the entry of two young men into the ministry with a young woman now studying to be a deaconess, the meeting of all Metropolitan Synod quotas, service to the community and the contributions to benevolences. During his pastorage, the Rev. Mr. Jaxheimer officiated at 976 baptisms, 500 marriages and 142 funerals, including those of 170 members.

Next Wednesday night a farewell reception is to be given to the pastor and his wife. A pulpit supply committee comprising W. F. Egan, Clarence Kelting and E. Lloyd Tressel has been named to recommend a new pastor for the church.
